Important Information About This Handbook

This handbook has been prepared to provide general information about Marquette and the policies of the university that affect student employees. The policies, procedures and rules described are not to be considered an employment contract. Marquette reserves the right to improve, modify, revoke, suspend, terminate or change policies, procedures and rules. Department-specific policies may vary. Questions regarding student personnel policies, rules and procedures should be directed to a supervisor or Student Employment Services.

Federal Work Study and Marquette Student Employment

Federal Work Study (FWS) is federally funded financial aid based on financial need. Marquette Student Employment (MSE) is funded by the university. Both programs allow students to work on campus, while some FWS positions are available at off-campus nonprofit agencies. Students are paid according to the skill level of their position.

Work Hours

Supervisors are not permitted to schedule full-time or half-time undergraduate and graduate student employees more than 20 hours per week while classes are in session. Students may work up to 37.5 hours per week during winter and summer breaks. F-1 and J-1 students may not work more than 20 hours per week while school is in session. Graduate Assistants are expected to work approximately 20 hours per week. Less-than-half-time students are also subject to the 20-hour weekly restriction. Students may not continue as student employees past their graduation date.

Student Paychecks

Marquette strongly recommends Direct Deposit. Student employees are paid every two weeks for hours worked, and employment earnings are not directly credited to the student account. Students using Direct Deposit can view paychecks online through MyJob. Students who do not use Direct Deposit may receive paper checks. Students expecting a paycheck that is unavailable should contact their supervisor.

Time Records

Student employees must report to work on time and comply with established schedules. Employees are responsible for accurately recording time worked in EmpCenter. Falsification of time records is a serious violation and may result in corrective action up to and including immediate discharge. EmpCenter rounds paid time around quarter-hour intervals, but actual clock-in and clock-out times are used for attendance purposes.

Necessary Documents for a Student to Be Paid

Required employment documentation includes the I-9 Form, applicable W-4 information, and completed EmpCenter timesheets. The I-9 must be completed with the Office of Student Employment by the third business day of hire. Supervisors must approve timesheets by the applicable deadlines.

Why a Student Might Not Receive a Paycheck

Possible causes include a hire not yet entered or processed in JobX, an unapproved EmpCenter timesheet, or a paper check awaiting pickup when Direct Deposit has not been established. Students should first speak with their supervisor and then contact Payroll when necessary.

Misreporting Hours

Falsification or unauthorized alteration of timesheets by student employees is subject to corrective action, including immediate termination.

Lunch Breaks

The manual states that there are no state or federal regulations requiring lunch periods or breaks, but recommends a one-half-hour unpaid break or lunch period for an employee working more than six hours at a time.

Attendance and Punctuality

Student employees are expected to strive for strong attendance, work safely, avoid unnecessary absences, and handle personal affairs outside working hours. Employees who know they will be absent or late must notify the department as far in advance as possible and no later than their scheduled start time. Departments may establish additional attendance policies.

Satisfactory Attendance

Frequent absences and tardiness constitute an unsatisfactory attendance record. The manual identifies repeated unreported or reported absences as potential grounds for dismissal and notes that medical verification may be requested in appropriate circumstances.

Job Satisfaction

Students who are unhappy with an employment situation are encouraged to speak openly with their supervisor. If the matter is not resolved, Student Employment Services may help seek a mutually satisfactory resolution. Supervisors may institute reasonable policies and procedures and assign students within their department.

Personal Appearance

Student employees are expected to dress in a manner appropriate to their position and that presents a favorable image of the university. Supervisors may establish position-specific dress requirements.

General Rules of Conduct

Student employees are expected to follow university and departmental rules. Conduct that may lead to corrective action includes unauthorized intoxicants or drugs, fighting, gambling, abusive language, unauthorized weapons, insubordination, leaving work without permission, sleeping on duty, creating unsafe conditions, theft, property damage, serious workplace discord, unauthorized postings, and failure to comply with university or departmental policies.

Confidentiality

Some student positions involve access to confidential information. Such information must not be discussed with relatives, friends, unauthorized persons, or in public areas. Confidential information should be discussed with other employees only when necessary for job performance. A breach of confidentiality may result in immediate dismissal or other corrective action.

Employment Authorization

The manual states that all student employees must complete Form I-9 and provide verification of identity and employment authorization by the third day of employment. Students whose work eligibility has an expiration date must update their documentation to continue employment.

Occupational Safety and Health Administration Regulations

Employees exposed to chemical hazards must receive required hazard communication information and training. Some departments may require additional safety training.

Injury Reporting

Marquette provides employees with workers' compensation insurance. Work-related injuries must be reported using the university's required procedures.

Emergency Procedures

For fire, medical emergencies, criminal activity or bomb threats, the manual directs the university community to contact the Marquette University Police Department. Emergency telephones with blue lights are available around campus. During tornado warnings, occupants should follow building-specific directions or move to an interior area of a lower floor away from windows.

Wellness at Work

The manual identifies student wellness resources, recreation facilities, and the Marquette University Medical Clinic as services that support employee physical, spiritual and emotional wellness.

Employee Evaluation

A work performance evaluation for each student employee is recommended at least once each academic year. The employee and supervisor should discuss evaluation results and formulate future goals.

Corrective Discipline

When employment-performance concerns arise, supervisors are encouraged to discuss the concern with the student. Serious or continuing concerns may be documented using a Corrective Discipline Interview Form, including the problem, expected improvement, and target date. Continued lack of improvement may lead to termination.

Sick Days and Holidays

Students who are ill should notify their supervisor as soon as they know they cannot report to work. Sick days are unpaid. Vacation days and holidays are also unpaid, and students should inform supervisors about schedule changes during breaks and holidays.

Verification of Employment or References

To protect student privacy, employment information is not provided by telephone. Written requests must include a signed release from the student. Student Employment may provide job title and start/end dates, while earnings information must come from Payroll.

Non-Discrimination and Sexual Harassment

The manual references Marquette's non-discrimination policy and states that sexual harassment of students and employees will not be tolerated. Sexual harassment and retaliation are prohibited, and complaints may be raised through designated university channels. Confidentiality is respected to the extent consistent with the university's obligation to investigate and respond.

Racial Abuse Policy

Marquette states that racial abuse or harassment of or by students, faculty, staff, guests or visitors will not be tolerated. The policy describes racial abuse and harassment as conduct based on color, race, national origin or ethnicity that is intimidating, hostile, demeaning, harmful, or interferes with employment, education or the university environment. Retaliation against a person initiating an inquiry or complaint is prohibited.

Policy on Religious Activity

As a Catholic university in the Jesuit educational tradition, Marquette supports the faith life of its members while respecting varying religious backgrounds. The policy allows approved religious services and recognized religious organizations while restricting proselytizing through university-controlled facilities, programs or activities.

Drug-Free Workplace Policy

Marquette states that unlawful manufacture, distribution, dispensation, possession or use of controlled substances is prohibited in the workplace. Violations may lead to corrective action up to and including suspension or termination. Employees convicted under a criminal drug statute for workplace conduct must report the conviction to their supervisor within the period specified by university policy.

Statement on Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome

The manual describes a response based on compassion, individual welfare and community protection. It states that diagnosis of HIV/AIDS alone is not sufficient basis for exclusion or dismissal, prohibits harassment of individuals suspected of infection, treats medical information as confidential, and emphasizes education and appropriate health and safety practices.

Accommodations for Student Employees

Student employees with documented disabilities may request reasonable workplace accommodations. Requests are coordinated through the Office of Disability Services, which facilitates an interactive process involving the student employee and appropriate supervisor. Approved accommodations are communicated in writing and apply to the position for which they were established unless reviewed for a new role.

Student Responsibilities to the Office of Student Financial Aid

Students receiving Federal Work Study are expected to report enrollment changes, maintain satisfactory academic progress, remain within their work award, report relevant financial changes, reapply for aid annually, submit requested documentation on time, and notify Student Employment Services about unresolved employment problems. Student Employment Services also helps connect students to jobs and administers work-study resources.
